Analysis Report for Student Feedback, 2023-24

The feedback from students for the academic year 2023-24 highlights both strengths and areas for improvement in various aspects of teaching and learning. The majority of students rated the efforts to cover the syllabus positively. However, there is a noticeable percentage (13.3%) who found the coverage average or below. While a majority acknowledged clarity in teaching expression, a significant number rated it average. A substantial number of students found the use of teaching aids satisfactory, but there is a need for improvement in utilizing advanced teaching models. While a majority acknowledged the integration of latest developments, a significant percentage rated it average. A majority appreciated the variety of teaching methods employed, but a considerable number rated it average. A significant number of students recognized efforts in arranging external learning experiences, but there is room for improvement.
